Proper Mastication.

Proper mastication implies that the food be thoroughly chewed and thixed with the fluids of the mouth before being awallowed and that these functions be performed without haste. Most people eat as though they were ignorant of silly toil. the fact that the stomach has no teeth or means of ensaligating the food with which they fill it. The stomach is a upon the floor, with his feet stretched most faithful servitor and makes a long out in front of him, his hands placed and earnest struggle to preserve its owner from the inevitable consequences straight before him. He was instionless; of imposing upon it functions which natrine intended should be performed by the test and promising topiands; but like the indulgences of a faithful mother or any other self sacrificing friend, its services are only recognized when it is anable to respond to demands for them. Most people as they approach middle life lose many of their back teeth, which are the principal implements of mastication, but they fail to bear in mind that they should take more time at their meals in order to prepare their food for swallowing. They should remember that nature makes no allowance for their infirmities in this respect, but will hold them to a strict account for any neglect to observe the rules of health .- Washington Star.

"What is he doing?" I said to the dragoman.

In a chamber next to the negro two grave old Arabs were playing chess. They were perched upon one of those Cairo settees which look like square chicken coops. One often sees these seats in the streets, placed for messengers and porters and for some time I took them for actual chicken coops, and wondered why they were always empty. Chickens might well have inhabited the one used by the chess players, for the central court upon which all these chambers opened was covered with a layer of rubbish and dirt several inches thick, which contained many of their feathers. -Constance Fenimore Woolson in Har-

Being the most ancient, it is the most general of all diseases or affections, for very few persons are entirely free from it.

By taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, by the remarkable cures it has accomplished, often when other medicines have failed, has proven itself to be a potent and peculiar medicine for this disease. Some of these cureagre really wonderful. If you suffer from scrofula, be sure to try Hood's Sarsaparilla.

" My daughter Mary was afflicted with scrofulous sore neck from the time she was 22 months old till she became six years of age. Lumps formed in her neck, and one of them after growing to the size of a pigeon's egg, became a running sore for over three years. We gave her Hood's Sarsaparilla, when the lump and all indications of scrofula entirely disappeared, and now she seems to be a hearty child." J. S. CARLILE, Nauright, N ...
